

What can parents do to help their child read?

Ask yourself these questions when reading with your child.....

- Does your child move his/her eyes or finger across the print (top to bottom, left to right)?
- Does your child match one-to-one when reading and not insert or omit words?
- Does your child check his/her own reading for errors?
- Does your child work independently on the more difficult parts of the text?
- Does your child read fluently with phrasing?
- Does your child use a variety of strategies to attack a new word?
- Does your child's oral reading make sense and demonstrate the use of reading skills?

Let your child know how proud you are of his/her reading success. Encourage and model a lifelong love for reading.

The Title I program is the nation's largest federal assistance program for schools. The purpose of the Title I program is to provide additional opportunities for students served in the program to acquire the skills outlined in the State's Academic Content Standards that all students are expected to meet. To receive Title I funding, each school district must submit a local improvement plan each year. On-site reviews are conducted regularly by the state to monitor a school district's Title I program. Selection of students to participate in the Title I program is determined by student performance on grade level diagnostic assessments and classroom teacher recommendations.

Title I services include additional instruction / tutoring beyond what is offered in the regular classroom instruction to ensure that all children will achieve success.
